

Security Risk Review

A security risk review is the first step towards gaining better control over security risk and improving resilience at every level of the organisation.

About NYA

NYA International is a global risk and crisis management consultancy.

For over 25 years we have helped organisations to maximise opportunities and operate successfully in challenging environments around the world.

A security risk review provides a high level of situational awareness for an organisation and a clearly defined plan for attaining security risk management goals.

It offers a detailed understanding of both the security exposures - which may affect personnel, assets, property, operations, commercial viability and reputation - and the suitability and effectiveness of the security management infrastructure currently in place. This enables the organisation to identify any measures necessary to more effectively mitigate and manage the risk.

A security review can be conducted at every level of an organisation - from corporate headquarters to a specific operating region or project site. Factors considered may include (but are not limited to):

- Company security plans, procedures and policies
- Physical and technical security systems including guarding
- Deployment, safe travel and journey management policies
- Staff security awareness training
- Due diligence of third party protective and technical security providers
- Community relations and liaison with local law enforcement
- Information, technology and communications security
- Incident management team resources, structure and competence

The review results in a detailed report of findings and recommendations, which are graded according to pre-agreed categories.

A security risk review is the first step towards gaining better control over security risk and improving resilience at every level. It helps an organisation to fulfil its duty of care responsibilities, reduce potential liabilities, ensure business continuity and safeguard corporate brand and reputation.
